May the #LegalTech be with us
GLTH is an initiative that brings together different operators related to the legal sector, with the objective of promoting and giving visibility to its digital transformation.

The hub was born with the desire to lead the field of legaltech both national and international level, from a privileged vision of the technology and from the best practices at global scale.

The hub is a reference and meeting point among legal professionals, startups, companies, institutions and academic world with the aim of writing the future of the legal industry leveraged on the technological innovation.

The hub is open to participation and is declared neutral from a professional point of view both professional (lawyers, notaries, registrars, etc.), and academic or technological.
Society is involved in a global process of digital transformation. The new digital tools and services are disrupting the legal sector. Understand digital transformation involves understanding how technology transforms the legal practice and the business model. The legal service business is being disrupted by new actors that are redefining how the legal services are distributed. Technologies like AI, the new conversational interfaces or the distributed blockchain technologies are pushing the boundaries of legal service production.

Vision

• Society is involved in a global process of digital transformation.
• The new digital tools and services are disrupting the legal sector.
• Understand digital transformation involves understanding how technology transforms the legal practice and the business model.
• The legal service business is being disrupted by new actors that are redefining how the legal services are distributed.
• Technologies like AI, the new conversational interfaces or the distributed blockchain technologies are pushing the boundaries of legal service production.
Mission

It is necessary for someone to lead and guide this transition process and do it from the business, academic and institutional areas.

We want to foster the development and success of the legal transformation across the world through these three actions:

- Lead the change: we aim to lead the transformation process of the legal industry. We will do it globally by promoting local chapters of the hub.

- Knowledge community: we bring together people around the industry to create and share knowledge.

- Networking: we connect relevant people around the world to make the legaltech industry a reality.
Our core values

- Be pioneers
- Innovate and thrive
- Build relationships
- Embrace the change
- Open to share
- Committed to become global
